IPC welcomes CSB-System AG as new associate member

CSB-System AG, which provides an extended range of IT management services and software solutions to meat and poultry companies worldwide, has joined the International Poultry Council as an associate member.

Based in the German city of Geilenkirchen, CSB-System offers turnkey specialized IT services for corporate management and process control that are tailored to the specific needs of the meat and poultry industries. Its list of clients is a who's who of specialty meat and poultry processors and purveyors across Europe, North America and around the world.

CSB-System develops specialized scalable and modular software in more than 30 languages that can be tailored to a company's individual needs, from a simple scale connection to complex logistical and tracking systems.

The IPC representative for CSB-System is Dr. Klemens van Betteray.
